

Kevin Kaczmariski is a Utility Instructor here at the Baseball Institute. Kevin is an Outfielder from Cary, Illinois, playing his High School years at Prairie Ridge HS. After High School, he attended University of Evansville where he panned out on the field, hitting over .300 in 55 games his Junior Year, and leading the nation his Senior Year with a .465 average in 46 games.

Kevin was drafted in 2015 by the New York Mets in the 9th round. Kevin has played in the minors for multiple teams within the Mets organization, totaling a batting average of .296, with 387 hits, 154 Rbis, and 11 HRs in 372 games.

On June 24th of 2018, Kevin made his major league debut with the New York Mets, and spent a few games in the Major Leagues before finishing his season with the Las Vegas 51s in AAA. Kevin hopes to be back in the MLB with the Mets for the upcoming 2019 season.

Kevin specializes in Outfield and hitting here at the BI and enjoys spending his time working with youth athletes and organizations in order to develop them into the best baseball players they can be.